The sixth World Urban Forum will take place in Naples, 1–7 September, and registration is already open for participants and potential exhibitors.

Organized jointly by UN-Habitat, the Government of Italy, the Campania Region and the City of Naples, the theme for this year’s meeting is The Urban Future. The four focus areas for discussion are: Urban Planning: Institutions and Regulations, including the improvement of Quality of Life; Equity and Prosperity: Distribution of Wealth and Opportunities; Productive Cities: Competitive and Innovative Cities and Urban Mobility, Energy & Environment.

In parallel with these main dialogue sessions, there will also be an additional 160 networking, side and training events and the World Urban Forum’s public exhibition will showcase some of the world's leading cities and innovations in urban development. Civil society will contribute with round tables and events organized to advance the agenda of urban social movements, including the “right to the city,” democratic reform and community development.

The discussions are already underway through online e-Debates at www.worldurbanforum.org. That online platform gives people unable to travel to Naples the chance to shape the Forum discussions.
